However, negative developments surrounding the US-China trade war, a sharp rise in crude oil prices and a continuing credit crisis in Indian non-banking finance companies (NBFCs) can spoil the show, he added.

As of now, the foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) have made a net investment of ₹1.33 lakh crore (nearly $19 billion) in the Indian markets so far in 2019, while a few days of trading is yet to take place.

While FPIs have made gross purchases worth over ₹18 lakh crore so far this year, they have sold securities worth ₹16.7 lakh crore across equities, debt and hybrid instruments.

This is the second highest inflow in the last five years and follows a net outflow of close to ₹81,000 crore in 2018. In 2017, the net inflow into Indian capital markets had crossed ₹2 lakh crore after a net outflow of over ₹23,000 crore in 2006.
