
Reddeadredemptionpsiso is the most recent release in the zombie genre for PlayStation Portable. This game is a third-person shooter with excellent visuals and an engaging story. The game takes place in a post-apocalyptic world that has been overrun by zombies. The player assumes the role of Jake Conway, a mercenary looking for a cure to save his daughter who has been bitten by a zombie. Unfortunately, Jake must kill his way through hordes of these undead to find this cure. Reddeadredemptionpsiso offers players both single player and multiplayer modes, as well as several different types of zombies to contend with - from survivors who have been infected to those just looking for fresh meat. The game offers the ability to earn points to unlock special features, including new weapons and hints. It also allows players to upload their own music for use in the game.

The main features of Reddeadredemptionpsiso include:

Just a few years before a group of scientists began a project called Redearth, they began a journal detailing the reaction of certain chemicals when combined with one another. This document was entitled Project Erebus, and was originally intended as only a record for most simple experiments. As time progressed, however, Erebus soon became an all out research project attempting to discover the most powerful reaction possible. After a while, the results were clear; when combined with the most common form of anti-energy, the red and yellow gem known as Erebus (which also gives off a faint reddish glow), and with a perfectly thin sheet of carbon, an explosion that could never be contained was produced. When this reaction is stimulated by Gamma Radiation, the explosion is amplified tenfold; ten times more powerful than if it were made in its original state. Over time this discovery came to be known as Project Erebus Redearth, and it had already been cleared for human use. The military wanted to use this technology immediately for many reasons, but public opinion was adamantly against the idea. Although the project was over, rumors continued to circulate as to the true nature of Project Erebus Redearth. Some believe it to be a weapon of mass destruction; others think it's an energy source; and still others claim it's a device for genetic manipulation. There were those in high places who knew what Project Erebus Redearth really was ... but they didn't realize just how far the corruption had spread. Years later, using a tech developed from research done on Project Erebus Redearth, scientists have managed to re-create the unstable element that causes this explosion, known as Erebus Beta. Unfortunately, testing has revealed that it has made its way into the blood stream of some survivors. The result? These survivors have become aggressive, violent, mindless, and much more resilient. This has forced the government to take drastic measures. With the help of the military they've created an involuntary vaccine called R11-A3 to try to hold back this infection. This vaccine will only last 24 hours before its effectiveness wears off, however. The process of injecting this solution into survivors is incredibly painful, but it seems that many are not able to wait long enough for the effects to wear off naturally before their blood lust gets the better of them. The people behind Project Erebus Redearth have lost control over what they created when it was stolen from them years ago.
