
If you love Disney films then the Jungle Book is for you. The Jungle Book's story revolves around a boy named Mowgli abandoned in the jungle by his parents, and grows up to be a man-cub in the lawless and unpeopled jungle. While in the jungle, he learns about life from his animal friends including an arrogant black panther named Bagheera and a free-spirited bear named Baloo. There are many movies which come together to make this movie great, such as songs "The Bare Necessities" and "I Wanna Be Like You". Songs are one of the most important factors in this movie. Songs are what help people learn about the movie because music instruments are being played during the movie. Music allows people to get into the movie itself, so there is no doubt about its greatness. As for movies, they are very common but many don't have music. For example Batman's "The Dark Knight" doesn't have any songs in it because his role is to fight crime and not to be a bandit. But "Jungle Book" does have songs because it has a story which helps people to understand the movie. The Jungle Book is great, just like all of Disney's movies. This movie is about a boy who was abandoned by his parents in the jungle, and he befriends many animals who teach him about life. If you are disappointed by cartoons today because they take too much time to make episodes and episodes end with cliffhangers causing you to wait for months, then The Jungle Book is your best option. It has two movies; the first one explains the story briefly and second one shows detailed stories of each character including Baloo and Bagheera. People's response to this movie is so great that many people have been asking for a third movie. This movies also have old cartoons when the quality was bad, so they made a better story, which means they care about their audience and take great care when making a story. This movie has been made in 1967 but it's still being played today at many homes. Since people have already seen the original version in 1967, then the remake in 1994 will look different from the original. However it is better than the original because there are more technologies today and they can add a lot more things in this movie compared to the original version in 1967. In 2014 there's going to be another remake released which will come out for its 50th anniversary. This is why many people are making more sequels. People's response to this movie is very great because people care about the environment and they want it to be better which causes them to love this movie. The Jungle Book doesn't have any bad points because it has good songs, good animation, beautiful message, nice graphics, and great story. All of these things make it one of the best Disney movies in history. The worlds are always changing but the important things are still the same. Some things never change even if you go 100 years back in time, but some other things will change rapidly just like modern technology which has caused many inventions that dramatically changed our lives recently.
