

TORIES' CRUCIAL CONFERENCE

KEM: I'LL DEPORT 150,000 ILLEGALS A YEAR

By SOPHIA SLEIGH

TORIES will promise to introduce a US-style immigration force to deport up to 150,000 people a year.

Leader Kemi Badenoch will unveil the Conservatives' toughest border policies yet at her first party conference.

The plan is part of a policy blitz as the Tories try to stop haemorrhaging support to Reform UK.

Ms Badenoch will pledge to create a £1.6billion removals force like the hardline US Immigration and Customs Enforcement agency.

Since President Donald Trump's second term started in January, it has seen more than two million illegal immigrants either leave the US voluntarily or be removed.

As the party faithful gathered in Manchester, Ms Badenoch – who turned up hand-in-hand with husband Hamish – said: "We must tackle the scourge of illegal immigration to Britain and secure our borders."

"That is why the Conservatives are setting out a serious and comprehensive new plan to end this crisis."

"Labour offer failed gimmicks like 'one thousand in, one out'."

"Reform have nothing but announcements that fall apart on arrival."

The plan – if the Conservatives win the next election – would see all new illegal migrants deported within a week of arrival.

The "Removals Force" would be handed sweeping powers like facial recognition to spot them.

Police will have to conduct immigration checks on everyone they stop. Illegal migrants would be banned from claiming asylum and refugee status will be for only those whose government is trying to kill them.

Immigration tribunals would be abolished and legal aid denied.

Ms Badenoch has committed to taking the UK out of the European Convention on Human Rights – used to argue against deportations. But she has been accused of mimicking Nigel Farage's Reform policies with tougher stances on borders and net zero.

Insiders claim Tory MPs are holding on to letters calling for Ms Badenoch to quit so they can use them when she can be challenged after a year in office – on November 3.

But others expect a move would be more likely after May's local elections.

Asked if they will topple Ms Badenoch after another bad performance at the ballot box, Shadow Energy Secretary Claire Coutinho told The Sun on Sunday: "Kemi's had one of the toughest jobs in politics. If you're someone who takes over a party after it's lost an election, it's a pretty rough ride."

"We're now taking on energy and you'll see even more from us on immigration. Those are the things that I think the public care about."

But on the eve of the Conference, London Assembly member Keith Prince became the latest Tory to jump ship to Reform.

A Labour Party spokesperson insisted: "The Conservatives' message on immigration is; we got everything wrong, we won't apologise, now trust us. It won't wash."

Hope... Netanyahu

Hostages 'back in days', by Israel PM

By ZEENIA NAQVEE

ISRAEL'S PM Benjamin Netanyahu last night said he hoped to bring back the hostages from Gaza "in the coming days" as he called off all bombing.

And he warned: " Hamas will be disarmed and Gaza will be demilitarised, either the easy way or the hard way."

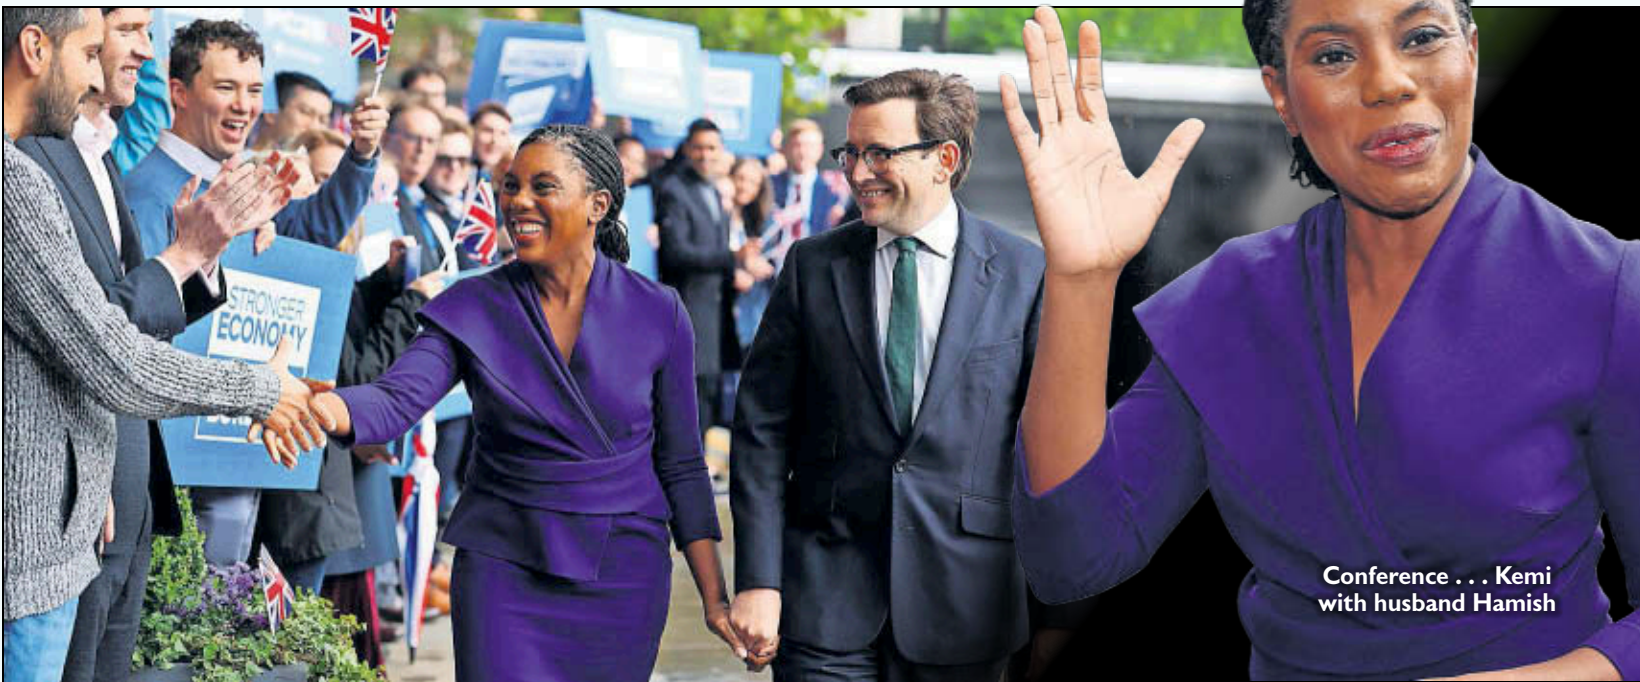

The terrorists agreed to release all hostages as part of President Trump's 20-point peace plan.

But they have yet to accept both giving up all weapons and the running of Gaza.

Trump's plan has won plaudits from world leaders, including PM Sir Keir Starmer. He said: "We strongly support the President's efforts."

Four people died in Gaza after an Israeli strike. Meanwhile two children died in a drone attack in Khan Younis.

Iran kills 6 'bomb plotters'

IRAN yesterday put to death six men it accused of killing police officers and carrying out bombings on behalf of Israel.

It brings the number of executions in the Islamic state this year to more than 1,000, the highest level since the 1980s, observers estimate.

The latest to die were identified as Arab political prisoners arrested in 2019.

They were tortured into televised confessions, say human rights groups.

Iran blames Israel for stirring up unrest among an Arab minority in oil-rich Khuzestan province.

WAR GIRLS 'FAIL'

PLANS to recruit women soldiers into frontline units have been described as a failed publicity stunt – after just 163 completed combat training in seven years.

Since 2018, a total of 80 women have joined the infantry while 83 joined the Royal Armoured Corps.

Ministry of Defence data also revealed that no female recruits had passed Royal Marine training.

Colonel Richard Kemp, a former British infantry commander in Afghanistan, said: "The whole thing will turn out to be a very costly, damaging and futile exercise in political correctness – funded by the taxpayer."

POPULARITY OF PM SLIDES

SIR Keir Starmer's popularity has tumbled even further after the Labour Party conference.

The PM's ratings slipped to minus 44 in a poll by Opinium.

Sir Keir trails Reform's Nigel Farage as preferred Prime Minister – by 31 points to 26 points.

KNIFE SITE SHUT

THE website used by Southport killer Axel Rudakubana to buy a machete has been taken offline.

Knife Warehouse sold the 16.5in blade weapon to the triple child-murderer in 2023, when he was 17, a year before his rampage.

CEO, Joseph Wheeler told the Southport inquiry this week it was "just another product" sold from their base in Leighton Buzzard, Beds.

Kukri machetes, like the one Rudakubana bought, are still legal for anyone over the age of 18 to own.

They were removed from the Knife Warehouse site but crossbows were still on sale before it went offline.
